The musical score consists of two staves of music. The top staff has four voices: soprano (G clef), alto (C clef), tenor (F clef), and bass (Bass clef). The bottom staff also has four voices: soprano (G clef), alto (C clef), tenor (F clef), and bass (Bass clef). The music is numbered from 119 to 127. The vocal parts are primarily represented by open circles (circumflexes) above the notes, indicating pitch inflections. The instrumental parts are represented by short vertical dashes. The vocal parts are mostly sustained notes, while the instrumental parts provide harmonic support.

Dank aan SEBASTIÁN AGUILERA DE HEREDIA (1561–1627): uit een van zijn Magnificatzettingen heb ik een paar prachtige voorbeelden van renaissance polyfonie geciteerd.
